Reflections and Looking to the Future

MESSAGE FROM AFHTO’S PRESIDENT

Dear AFHTO Members, Partners, and Stakeholders,

In a year of immense challenges and opportunities in our healthcare system, the Association of Family Health Teams of Ontario (AFHTO) has been dedicated to supporting our members and shaping the evolving landscape of primary care in Ontario.

This year, we continued to equip our members with essential tools and insights. The Eckler Report provided valuable data on the health human resources landscape, and our Advocacy Toolkit, along with the Interprofessional Healthcare Providers and Executive Director HHR Surveys, offered key resources to support recruitment and retention efforts. We remain committed to advocating for funding to address pay disparities between primary care and other health sectors, an ongoing priority in our efforts to foster a sustainable healthcare system.

AFHTO’s role as a leader in Ontario’s health system transformation is growing. We are actively shaping policy discussions and promoting innovation in team-based primary care. Our vision is clear: to achieve equitable access to excellent team-based primary care for every person in Ontario.

During this time of transition, the contributions of our interim CEO, Mike McMahon, have been invaluable. His strong leadership, insight, ability to engage with members and partners, and skills in strengthening AFHTO have driven us forward. We are grateful for his dedication during this pivotal period.

We also recognize the dedication and contributions of our excellent staff, whose commitment and hard work have been essential in achieving our goals. Their contributions reflect the collective strength of AFHTO.

A special thanks to our board members, whose knowledge, skills, and unwavering support have been both inspirational and essential to our success.

We are excited to welcome our new CEO, Jess Rogers. With over 20 years of experience in healthcare transformation, advocacy, and leadership, Jess brings a wealth of knowledge and passion for strengthening team-based primary care in Ontario. Her deep commitment to improving outcomes for all Ontarians makes her an excellent addition to AFHTO.

Looking ahead, our new strategic plan will guide us through several key initiatives. We will advocate by leading health system and primary care transformation, positioning AFHTO as an essential partner for change. We will support our members, enabling them to provide equitable and integrated team-based primary care to more Ontarians. Additionally, we will focus on excellence in governance and operations, both within AFHTO and among our members, ensuring that we consistently demonstrate value in all that we do. We are confident that we can help lead the way toward a stronger primary care system in Ontario.

Thank you for your continued support and collaboration. Together, we will continue to strengthen primary care and improve health outcomes for all Ontarians.

Sincerely,

Dr. Kevin Samson
President, AFHTO

Stronger Together

ADVANCING PRIMARY CARE IN ONTARIO

AFHTO is proud to continue its work with the Primary Care Collaborative, a coalition of primary care organizations collectively representing 14,000 family doctors, 1,000+ primary care nurse practitioners, 286 primary care teams, and 28 Indigenous primary care teams, including northern, rural, and remote teams.

Advocating for a Strong Primary Care System: Pre-Budget Submissions

AFHTO made significant strides in our advocacy this year, including submitting pre-budget submissions to the Government of Ontario in collaboration with the Primary Care Collaborative.

The Primary Care Collaborative 2023 Pre-Budget Submission provided recommendations that need to be prioritized by the provincial government to deliver the care that Ontarians need and deserve, including:

- Make team-based primary care available to more Ontarians through an investment of an additional $75 million per year for 10 years.
- Address the health human resource crisis in primary care through the creation of a primary care HHR table.

In addition to the recommendations provided in partnership with the Primary Care Collaborative, AFHTO's 2023 Pre-Budget Submission outlined two additional recommendations that will be essential to delivering care to Ontarians:

- Provide mental health and addictions services and home and community care in coordination with primary care.
- Provide resources to support the implementation of primary care networks (PCNs) and recognize PCNs as the organizing model for primary care.

Investments in Team-Based Primary Care

Thanks to the ongoing advocacy efforts of AFHTO and our partners in primary care, in February 2024 the Ontario government announced a $110 million investment in primary care, aiming to connect up to 328,000 individuals to team-based primary care.

The Ontario government also announced an additional $546 million investment in Budget 2024 which aims to connect up to 600,000 individuals to team-based primary care.

This funding will support new and existing teams and ensure more Ontarians can access team-based care. AFHTO supported members' Expressions of Interest applications for funding to expand and establish these teams, and continues to work with members, the Ministry of Health and Ontario Health on the continued rollout of the funding.

Closing the Wage Gap: For Us. For You.

Ontario's community healthcare sector – including Family Health Teams, Nurse Practitioner-Led Clinics and Community Health Centres – are facing a health human resources crisis.

Ten community health associations in Ontario, including AFHTO, have come together to launch an advocacy campaign to raise awareness about the growing wage gap facing the community health sector compared to other sectors, such as hospitals and schools. This wage gap amounts to more than $2 billion and is causing a staffing crisis impacting the services and care Ontarians rely on.

As part of this work, AFHTO and its partners completed the Ontario Community Health Compensation Market Salary Review. The purpose of the study was to conduct a market review of compensation for clinical and non-clinical roles across healthcare sectors. The report identified several key findings:

- The community health sector is experiencing significant staffing challenges, including high turnover rates, minimal compensation increases, severe staffing shortages in rural areas, and limited growth opportunities.
- Compensation is the most pressing labour challenge.
- Benchmarked jobs in the community health sector are compensated significantly less than similar roles in Ontario's broader public sector, including hospitals, acute care, and the education sector.

Based on the findings of this report, the 10 associations released a Pre-Budget Submission, including actions that the Ontario government can take to address this wage gap. These include:

- Commit in Budget 2025 to investing over $500 million each year over the next five years to close the wage gap between community health and other sectors.
- Address Bill 124 shortfalls immediately, as have other sectors.
- Establish a community health human resources working group with key government stakeholders across relevant ministries.

This work continues, and we will be engaging further with our members and our health partners this fall to support ongoing government advocacy.

FOR US.
FOR YOU.

Leading the way

TRANSFORMING PRIMARY CARE

Equitable and data-driven implementation of team-based primary care expansion

AFHTO has continued to work collaboratively with Ontario Health and the Ministry of Health to shape the future of team-based primary care in Ontario.

In June 2023, AFHTO conducted an analysis in collaboration with the Alliance for Healthier Communities to identify high-priority areas of the province that would benefit from the expansion of team-based primary care. This analysis incorporated data on patient attachment rates, population socioeconomic status, and marginalization dimensions, advocating for a data-driven and equitable approach to investments in the expansion of primary care teams. AFHTO continues to work closely with primary care partners and the government to inform the next phase of primary care team expansion.

Evaluating and Modernizing Team-Based Primary Care

Working with our partners in primary care and Dr. Monica Aggarwal from the Dalla Lana School of Public Health at the University of Toronto, AFHTO is in the midst of a three-year partnership that seeks to build high-performing primary care systems in Ontario, including defining and measuring team functioning, performance, and collaboration. This research will help to inform the definition and measures for evaluating effective primary care teams. These findings will help to support contract modernization and quality improvements of team-based primary care in Ontario in collaboration with our members, the Ministry of Health, and Ontario Health. AFHTO is committed to updating, engaging with and soliciting feedback from its members on a regular basis as contract modernization progresses.

Advancing Health System Transformation

AFHTO conducted a survey of its members to inform the development of Primary Care Networks (PCNs) and the designation requirements of Ontario Health Teams (OHTs). The survey results informed the feedback AFHTO shared with the Ministry of Health and on the proposed regulations under the Connecting Care Act, 2019. AFHTO continues to work closely with the Ministry of Health and Ontario Health to support the development of OHT maturation criteria.

Team-Based Care

MAKING IT A REALITY FOR ALL

On October 25, 2023, AFHTO's members and partners came together at our annual conference to celebrate the work of the past year, showcase important work underway, and to discuss the future of care.

This was our second in-person conference since the pandemic started, and it provided learnings and networking opportunities for those who work in and with team-based primary care.

The conference was a timely opportunity to connect with colleagues and to talk about how we can collectively create the conditions to make team-based primary care a reality for all Ontarians.

Sessions included:

- A fireside chat with representatives from Ontario Health, Georgina NPLC, and University of Toronto, moderated by AFHTO board member Rakib Mohammed.
- An opening plenary by Dr. Tara Kiran and Mike Suta, who outlined OurCare's research and public engagement that culminated in the creation of a standard of primary care in Canada.
- Recognition of this year's Bright Lights Awards winners by AFHTO's outgoing president Sara Dalo and Ontario Health's Dr. Sacha Bhatia.
- A closing plenary with bestselling author Nina Spencer, who outlined five everyday personal practices to elevate team-based success.

We thank all who joined in person and those who tuned in virtually to see the sessions.

We look forward to another year of collaboration as we support our members, continue our advocacy, and work together to create a strong healthcare system built on team-based primary care.

Your Voice Matters: Improving the Conference Experience

In response to valuable feedback from our members, we have made several key improvements to our annual conference, including:

- Returning to a two-day format, with the second day concluding earlier to better accommodate travel plans.
- Increasing opportunities for networking, including the popular Let's Talk About sessions, allowing members to meet, mingle and share insights on shared topics of interest.
- More promotion for our incredible Bright Lights Awards nominees, including as a Let's Talk About session.
- Exploring opportunities to lower hotel costs for our 2026 annual conference.

We extend our sincere thanks to all our members for your valuable feedback, which has been instrumental in shaping improvements to our 2024 conference.

2023 Bright Lights Awards Recipients

At this year’s conference, AFHTO named the winners of our 12th annual Bright Lights Awards. Selected from dozens of nominees, the recipients have risen to the challenge in their communities and the broader healthcare system, improving access to primary care in Ontario through innovation, leadership and collaboration.

Huron Shores Family Health Team /
Optimizing teams’ capacity and creating efficiencies

Huron Shores Family Health Team serves a population with a large proportion of elderly patients. In reviewing the team’s hospital discharge program, they identified a gap in access to a family physician and noticed numerous referrals to a social worker for grief. As a result, their nurse practitioner, nurse, and social worker joined forces and created a Palliative Care Program.

Two Rivers and Grandview Medical Centre Family Health Teams /
Organizing primary care to advance Ontario Health Teams

The Association of Family Health Teams of Ontario (AFHTO) is a not-for-profit association representing Ontario’s interprofessional primary health care teams.

Team-based primary care is composed of family doctors, nurse practitioners, nurses, dietitians, social workers, pharmacists and other health care providers who work together to provide seamless and connected care to patients.

AFHTO’s 190 member organizations represent over 2,400 interprofessional health care providers and are affiliated with over 2,000 family physicians. Our members operate in every region of the province, providing primary care services and supports to more than 3.5 million Ontarians through every step and stage of life.

AFHTO envisions a health care system where every Ontarian will have access to equitable, high-quality, comprehensive, cost effective, integrated team-based primary care, leading to better health outcomes for patients and the communities in which they live, while reducing the burden on hospitals and emergency departments across the province.
